

After the Storm: Cultivating our Human Resources for the New Economy

6th Annual Northern Symposium - Prince George, B.C. - October 4 & 5, 2010

The post-recession world will not return to the “normal” as we knew it. Organizations are facing globalization, economic volatility, changing consumer demands and behaviours, inter-generational opportunities and challenges, and shifts in retirement and talent availability. This means there is a new reality to which businesses must continually adapt. Human Resources professionals will need to play a more strategic role in supporting the business and its employees. The 2010 Northern Symposium After the Storm - Cultivating our Human Resources for the New Economy was created in recognition that new realities mean something new for HR leadership.

This theme brings together high-quality presenters who will provide insights, experiences, case studies, tools, and practical strategies to support HR practitioners and business leaders in addressing new challenges and responding to dynamic work environments.
